

From: jmanning@wlinpco.com@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/29/01 5:32pm
Subject: My humble Opinion

In the drive to protect consumers and reduce the appearance of a monopoly on the part of Microsoft, has anyone considered the price of their products? If you look at all other operating systems vs. Microsoft's offerings, Microsoft is in a ball park all of their own. I feel a fair settlement would include pricing of the products that is more reflective of the market. After all, how many billions do Microsoft and Bill Gates have to earn before they decide they've won?

John Manning MCP
Information Systems Director
West Linn Paper Company
4800 Mill Street
West Linn, Oregon 97068
503-557-6500
